PERMISSION has been refused the Equitable Reserve Fund and Life Association to do business in Ohio. The company is organized under the laws of New York State, which allow greater privileges than those of Ohio. Another reason is that they charge $5.50 on a certificate of $1,000, while in Ohio $2 is the limit on that amount.

THE Postal Telegraph Company have a wire two-fifths steel and three-fifths copper between New York City and Chicago over which they telephone as if it were a short city line. Think of calling Chicago, recognizing the voice of your grain broker, obtaining his opinion of the market at the moment, having your order executed and all without delay. Surely the telegraph is threatened with a serious opposition in the near future.

The Cowboy Troubles.

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—The stockmen of the Texas Panhandle, at a recent meeting, decided to begin the spring round ups of cattle in the Canadian and Wichita rivers and Wolf Creek Districts May 10th, and the Salt Fork and Red River Districts May 20th. If there is to be any trouble with the striking cowboys it will develop at these round ups. Lieutenant John Hoffer, with a company of the frontier battalion of Texas Rangers, is in camp near Mobetle in the center of the troubled district, and will do everything possible to preserve order.

Heavy Shipments of Western Cattle.

WICHITA FALLS, TEX., April 24.—The shipments of stock cattle to this place have commenced in earnest. Three trains have arrived in the past twenty-four hours, and there are about 7,000 cattle on the road to arrive in a day or two, besides one stock of 25,000 cattle that will be shipped in the next ten days.

The Railway Exposition.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Extensive preparations are being made for the great Railway Exposition, which will be open nearly all summer here.

SONS OF MONEY-BAGS.

The Giant Stock Operators to Give Their Sons a Chance.

Youthful Goulds and Vanderbilts to Try Their Hands—Boys Who May or May Not Waste Their Fathers' Millions.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Discussing the alleged retirement from active business life of some of Wall street's most prominent operators, the Star says: This probable retirement of Mr. Gould, who is the acknowledged leader in Wall street to-day, was followed by the announcement that his chief rival in the speculative world, Wm. H. Vanderbilt, is also arranging his business affairs with a view to spending the remainder of his days in a quiet and less disturbed manner, and to place the burden of his heretofore great labors upon the shoulders of his sons, who, he thinks, have abundantly shown themselves to be apt scholars and capable to assume the responsibility. Especially is it so with Cornelius, his eldest son, who is regarded by his father as very conservative. Cornelius is rather piously inclined and carries somewhat a sanctimonious countenance, while William K. is quite the reverse.

"He is more speculative and go-aheadative than his elder brother," said a well-known New-street broker, who is an intimate friend of the family. "He is more like his grandfather, the Commodore, not easily frightened at figures, in connection with Wall-street operations."

"Then you think the elder Vanderbilt proposes to retire from active business?"

"I know that he does. Much of the stock speculative business which is now attributed to the father is really connected in no way with him, but is exclusively confined to the dealings of the boys. They employ the same brokers who formerly did the business of the Commodore, and since of William H., and for this reason it often creates an impression that all purchases and sales are for the account of the father."

"How do the boys carry on their operations?"

"Their dealings are largely confined to the roads under their management—New York Central, Lake Shore, Canada Southern, Michigan Central, Northwest and Omaha. They seldom visit Wall street, but carry on their operations by private wires from the Grand Central Depot, or from offices in that immediate neighborhood. In Lake Shore they have made big money, and in all their deals they have been successful. Their operations are sufficiently large and bold to carry them to a successful termination, and this, in reality, was the secret of the Commodore's great success."

"How did the Vanderbilt boys get their start in life?"

"While the Commodore was living, the Vanderbilt boys were scarcely heard of, and even William H. was kept in the background, owing to the imperious and autocratic manner of the Commodore toward his family and all his relatives. Especially was this the case with his sons-in-law, James M. Cross, a fine looking and worthy gentleman, married the eldest Vanderbilt girl, and shortly afterward was anxious to embark in business. At that time the safest and most profitable business was known as the leather trade in the Swamp District. Mr. Cross found a man experienced in that line who impressed him so much with his ability that a partnership was concluded, a store was rented, clerks were negotiated with, and all that was wanting was the $50,000 which Cross was to furnish. He called upon the Commodore, laid his plans before him and asked for the money. The Commodore asked: 'James, how much do you think the new business will make for you in a year if I should advance the $50,000?' Desiring to be regarded as conservative, Cross responded that it would certainly net him $5,000 a year."

"Well, James," said the Commodore, with great deliberation, 'I can do much better with $50,000 than that myself. I will give you a salary of $5,000 a year and send you to California to look after my business interests there.'

"When the Commodore died, however, leaving $80,000,000, the bulk of his fortune to his favorite son, William H., he left $5,000,000 to young Cornelius, $2,000,000 to William K., $1,000,000 to Frederick and $1,000,000 to George Vanderbilt, all sons of William H. This inheritance, all but George, who is under age, they received when they reached their majority age, and started in life for themselves. Since that time they have paddled their own canoes. It is safe to say that they are worth to-day from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 each."

"George Gould," said Henry Clews, "is twenty-three years of age, his father's pet and his daddy's joy. He is as bright as he looks, and only lacks experience to enable him to wear his father's cloak during his absence on a yachting excursion. He has never tried to do much on his own account, and that experience he now lacks. He always relied upon and put his trust in his father, whose dealings were sufficiently large of late years to provide for George and the rest of the family. When Jay Gould absents himself, George undoubtedly will develop, and soon show the stuff of which he is made. Heretofore he has made some money from his interest in the firm of W. E. Connor & Co., as they are regarded to have been quite successful in their operations. It will be a new era, however, for Wall street for these giants in finance, William H. Vanderbilt and Jay Gould, to take back seats and the young bloods to come to the front. What Wall street needs is young blood, because it makes activity, and it is the rapidity of action in transactions which creates activity and brings wealth to those who possess it. It also brings with it the many qualities of boldness and self-reliance—the latter being the quality of all others, especially when backed by good judgment. That is the basis of success in Wall street. It teaches those who possess it to shun 'points' and information which are soon broadcast on the street and invariably wreck those who follow them. Other young bloods who are conspicuous on Wall street are the sons of George I. Seney, the banker philanthropist, and Charles A. Johns. The instances where sons of wealthy men have shown self-sustaining ability are rather to be regarded as exceptions, however, as generally sons of very rich men do not succeed to their fathers' talents and business shrewdness. Their great expectations through life seem to satisfy them, and dwarf completely their energies to strike out and try to make a name and fame for themselves."

THE SOUTHERN CYCLONE.

Additional Particulars—Extent of Its Ravages.

WESSON, MISS., April 24.—Previous accounts but poorly tells the story of the calamity that has overtaken the two prosperous towns, but in the confusion naturally consequent upon such an occurrence, it is impossible to give a complete and comprehensive story. The heavy rain that fell during the evening, while it added to the misery of the sufferers, and made the condition of the victims who were rendered homeless pitiable in the extreme; it still should be considered as almost a God send, for without it the horrors of the affair must have been four fold, for fire would certainly have followed and completed the cyclone's work of destruction, rendering the rescue of many of the wounded impossible. It is believed that all the wounded have been taken from the debris. In Beauregard the search of the ruins was being prosecuted in a half-hearted kind of a way, the vastness of the catastrophe and the completeness of the destruction having seemingly paralyzed the survivors.

The depot was swept away and not a sign of it now remains.

Following is a partial list of the dead and wounded:

John Ross, mortally wounded.
Mrs. Fannie Young, killed.
Milton Story, killed.
Morgan James, mortally hurt.
Isaac Bloom, seriously hurt.
M. M. Daniels, mortally injured.
Mr. Trumbull, of Brookhaven, fatally.
Captain Lampkins, wife, and child, all dead.

George Holliday, mortally wounded.
Mrs. Holliday, leg broken.
Mr. Wilcox, both arms broken.
A. J. Ferguson and family, including ten persons, all dangerously wounded.
Mr. Charles Lane, mortally wounded.
Dr. Albert G. Pierce and child, mortally wounded. Their house fell on them.
J. O. Williams was killed.

AT OTHER POINTS.

On the Natchez and Columbus railroad the town of Telman was destroyed.

On the Vicksburg and Meridian railroad the town of Lawrence suffered terribly, but no lives were lost.

In one cabin were five persons, who say that the walls and roof of the house were lifted up and carried away, leaving them standing unhurt on the floor.

At Cook's plantation, on the Tombigbee river, nearly every house was demolished. At Caledonia, twelve miles north of Columbus, the storm seems to have concentrated its fury. Jack Stephenson, while bending over his wife and trying to allay her fears, was struck on the head by a falling beam and instantly killed.

A dispatch from Aberdeen, Miss., says the cyclone passed over that portion of the town known as Freedmantown, at noon yesterday. Eight or ten lives were lost, and about fifty persons, most of them negroes, were injured, some of whom will die.

SAVANNAH, April 24.—A dispatch from Eastman says that a cyclone passed over that town, doing great damage. The house of John Register was blown down and his two children were killed. Samuel Harris' house was demolished, and his wife and children were badly injured.

A Church-Burning Parson.

MEXICO, MO., April 24.—The Rev. Silas Smith (colored) has been behind the bars since Saturday, when he was brought back from St. Louis. He tried very hard to get friends to go on his $500 bond, but not enough of them were property-holders to rescue their shepherd. Mr. Smith is very much depressed, but still insists that he did not instigate the burning of the rival faction's church. Ann Crockett says that Smith vouchered her and caused her to fire the building. She has been released on turning State's evidence, and Mrs. Redman, who is in jail as accessory to the crime, is said to have succeeded Ann in Mr. Smith's regard.

METHODISTS MUST NOT GO.

Opposition by Methodist Ministers to the Dramatic Festival.

CINCINNATI, April 24.—The Methodist ministers are sincere in their opposition to the Dramatic Festival. They will not make any violent fight against it. Their resolutions adopted yesterday had not a dissenting vote, and it is generally understood that each pastor will, in his own way, use his influence to rouse members of his congregation to a sense of their obligations. The discipline of the church is pronounced against the theater. Dr. Walden says:

"The general rule, in which there has been no change from the beginning, pronounces against the partaking of such diversions as cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus." The General Conference, in 1872, at its session in Brooklyn, believing that this language was not sufficiently explicit, specified the following, among other forms of imprudent and unchristian conduct: 'Dancing, playing at games of chance, attending theaters, horse races, dancing parties, or patronizing dancing schools or taking such other amusements as are obviously of misleading or questionable moral tendency.' Two general conferences have been held since, neither of which have modified the language. It was adopted by a unanimous vote, and is the full, correct, and emphatic expression of the Methodist Episcopal Church at this hour. But what can be said in addition to the resolutions adopted? Theatrical entertainments are now, and always have been, detrimental to the interests of morality and religion. The theater in itself is bad. The fact of holding it in Music Hall makes it no less a theater. The tendency of the stage for the past twenty-five years has been downward. The advertising bills indicate it. Twenty-five years ago classical dramas were presented, but you rarely see one advertised now. But you can make no exceptions. The theater is bad in itself, and cannot, according to the discipline of our church, be encouraged."

Delicious Peaches Promised.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—A wholesale produce merchant, who deals extensively in fruits, returned yesterday from the Delaware peach district.

"The Delaware peach crop," he said, "can be depended upon this season to be an exceptionally fine one. An excessive yield, and consequent depreciation of the quality of the fruit from overloading and overtaxing the trees, is not expected, but an average yield in quantity, 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels, which there is every reason to anticipate, will be remarkable for its richness in flavor and excellent size. The extraordinary crop of 1874, when the yield reached 8,000,000 bushels and the market was glutted, will not be repeated, but the difference in quantity will more than be made up by the pungently saccharine flavor, which promises to be of the best."

The greatest risk of damage to the crop by frost is between the first and twentieth days of this month. During the past winter everything has been favorable to the development of the peaches. Since last December the season has been steadily cold, which left the sap in the roots. A winter like that also gives the trees a complete 'rest,' as the growers call it, which is a certain guarantee of large sized peaches during the following summer. The backward spring has retarded growth, until now danger from frost is reasonably thought to be over, and nature will proceed with her best methods to make the peach crop for 1883 delicious.

"Every spring the growers select specimen branches from variously situated trees, and these are placed in bothouses and their ends dipped in water that is kept torpid. Then the buds are forced until an expert can tell, with the aid of a microscope, precisely what the nature of the coming crop will be. From these and other recognized indications I am convinced that the yield will be of average bulk, and of the finest flavor."

A Bad Man Meets His Death on the Gallows.

FRANKLIN, TEX., April 24.—Wyatt Banks was hanged here yesterday afternoon for the murder of Jailer Add Wyser, May 28, 1882. Waite and two other prisoners, Daniel Compton and Wyatt Banks, the last named colored, plotted the murder. Waite carried it out by concealing himself in the prison corridor while allowed the use of it for exercise, and when the jailer brought the prisoners their breakfast, Waite beat him to death with a bar of iron.

Waite had procured a blanket, torn it into strips, and tied them around his feet, so as to deaden the noise of his footsteps. Sunday morning Wyser entered the corridor accompanied with food for the prisoners. As he was placing the vessels containing their food upon a stand in the rear part of the corridor, Waite slipped out of the vacant cell in which he had been concealed, and struck him a murderous blow on the back of the head with the piece of piping, felling him to the floor. The fiend then showered blow after blow upon his victim, until he was beaten into insensibility. Taking the jailer's pistol, watch and valuables, Waite released his accomplices, and they ran to the woods.

The citizens turned out en masse, and in less than half an hour returned all the prisoners (five or six in number) with the exception of Wyatt Banks and Fred E. Waite. They put a bloodhound on Banks' trail, and after following the dog through farms, glades and woods for some three miles, the dog halted at a negro cabin and barked, and Banks was found concealed within and returned to jail. Waite was captured shortly afterward in a field, where he had lain down on the ground to rest.

All were convicted. Waite was hanged just one month ago and Compton is in the Penitentiary for life.

Banks was a mulatto, a barber by trade, and was twenty-five years of age.

Banks was hanged in the jail upon the same gallows upon which Waite was executed a month ago. A large crowd was admitted, but there was no disorder.

Discharged Conductors.

COLUMBUS, O., April 24.—It is reported here that the conductors on the Chicago, Logansport and Bradford division of the Panhandle had also received their walking papers. The sufferers were G. R. Boslaw, J. T. Hall, J. R. Hayes, J. N. Curry and J. P. Crawford.

THE FOREIGN BUDGET.

Ramifications of Fenianism.

LONDON, April 24.—The Times says the Government has obtained information, in the course of the recent inquiries, that the enrolled members of the Fenian organization in the United Kingdom number 150,000, and there are besides distinct offshoots of Fenianism, such as the Vigilants and Invincibles. Eugene Kingston, who was arrested at Liverpool and taken to Dublin, was a member of both these branches. Such double membership is unusual. There are, besides, secret sections affiliated with the American dynamite party. The police have accurate information regarding the movements of the conspirators, and it is expected further revelations will be made.

The Great Liverpool Fire.

LIVERPOOL, April 24.—The loss by the burning of Sir Edward Bates' cotton and general warehouse and Garrock, Bibby & Co.'s ship chandlery and ropewalk here Saturday is now fixed at £250,000.

The Bank of England Threatened.

PORTSMOUTH, ENG., April 24.—Letters have been received by the officers of the branch house of the Bank of England, threatening the destruction of that building by dynamite. Detectives in consequence have been detailed to watch the bank.

After the Dynamiters.

LONDON, April 23.—In the Commons this afternoon, Bourke, Conservative, gave notice that he would question the Government as to whether any steps have been taken by the authorities at Washington relative to the conspiracies against England, alleged to have been organized in America by members of the Irish dynamite party.

Revolts Against Cerewayo.

LONDON, April 23.—Dispatches from Zululand state that there is serious fighting among the tribes in the interior, the revolt being caused by the restoration of Cerewayo to his throne, which is resisted by the more influential of the local chiefs.

The Irish Trials.

DUBLIN, April 24.—Joseph Hanlan, another of the prisoners charged with being implicated in the Phoenix Park murders, is expected to turn informer. The Government apparently mistrusts its ability to make out a case against him, and intends using him at the second trial of Timothy Kelly.

Timothy Kelly, the alleged Phoenix Park murderer, in whose case the jury failed to agree last Friday, was again placed on trial to-day.

The English Explosive Acts.

LONDON, April 24.—The Home Secretary has been overwhelmed with letters and petitions reminding him of the trades interests, which may be, even if they are not already, seriously involved by the explosive bill, and members of the House of Commons are in receipt of petitions urging the necessity of an immediate change in the laws. The principal operators who suffer directly from the law and who feel its effects at once, are mine owners, quarrymen, builders and others who depend almost entirely on the use of dynamite to carry on their legitimate business. They have already been harassed by the inconvenient restrictions placed on commercial transactions in explosives, and the new law makes it dangerous to carry on their business at all, as it places them practically at the mercy of blackmailers and pretended informers.

Music at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, TENN., April 24.—At the auction sale of seats this morning for the Mozart Society Music Festival May 14th and 15th, the first choice sold for $200 premium, and was purchased by Eugene Reidy. The second choice was purchased by Charles Lowenstein, $75 premium. The prices were afterward graduated down to much smaller amounts. The sale continues four days longer.

LOGAN COUNTY has instructed for General Buckner, for Governor.

The President has returned to Washington and is apparently in good health.

The constitutional prohibitory amendment has been defeated by the Pennsylvania Legislature.

It is estimated that 240,000 cattle will be driven out of Texas this season, a decrease of about $100,000 as compared with the drive last year.

An effort is making to secure the presence of General Joseph E. Johnston, at the reunion of the First Kentucky Brigade, at Lexington, next August. He will be strongly urged to attend by many ex-Confederates, who served under him during the late war, and it is believed he will respond favorably to the invitation.

The Russell License Bill, lately passed by the Ohio Legislature, imposes a tax of $300 upon Spiritualistic Mediums. The intention of the framers of the law was to compel the mediums, fortune tellers, astrologers, etc., to contribute their share toward the support of the State government. The Spiritualists, however, see in the new law a blow at their religion, which has been purposely struck. They lay the responsibility upon the Methodist Church, which fears the inroads Spiritualism is making among its members. The mediums, it is claimed by the Spiritualists, are the ministers of their religion, and a tax upon the pastor and priests of the other denominations could have been included in the new law with equal propriety. They declare that it is an oppressive act born of a bigoted spirit, and is unconstitutional. They will oppose it to the last. In resisting so unjust a measure they expect to be guided by the advice of the spirits. They claim to number 10,000 in Cincinnati.

The New York Sun discusses the next Democratic candidate for President. It refers to the prominence given to the name of Tilden and the Republican sentiment that in case of his nomination the idea of electing a Republican would practically disappear. He would unite all factions of the Democracy. It says: And yet how does this candidate who would fill the Democrats with enthusiasm and the Republicans with anxiety correspond with the sort suggested by various members of the Democratic party. If Mr. Tilden is not to lead his party what must be the principles of the standard bearer who shall be chosen? Shall he appear as a representative mainly of the pure and equitable doctrine of free trade, a theory which the indebtedness of this country must for years to come render impracticable? Or, shall he be a man capable of grappling with the vital needs of the country and ready to head the enormous army of voters who drove out the majority of the last Congress because of their riotous extravagance and indifference to the necessity of reducing the burden of our taxes? This is a question for genuine Democrats to think over.

CONCERNING the crop prospects in Kentucky the Cincinnati News says: The reports received, while not covering the whole state, represent fairly the average condition of the best wheat growing sections. They are up to April 20. The last previous reports made were March 31, just after a season of dry, freezing weather, and shortly after the February floods, which, in some places, had overflowed larger sections seldom touched by water, and done great damage by washing away the soil, carrying the growing plants along. In many places the severe freezes in January had killed a large proportion of the crop, and thinned out fields that were more than usually luxuriant in the start. March was a very backward month in this section, and farmers saw their wheat much behind last year's condition at that time, and so reported. The commissioner of agriculture estimated from his reports of March 31 that the condition of the crop at that time was only about 70 per cent, as compared with 1882, while the acreage was 8 per cent. greater. Since April 1 the weather has been springlike. The warm sun and occasional rains have worked wonderful changes. Fields that had been marked by the farmer to be plowed under came out so rapidly and promise so well that such design was abandoned, in fair hopes of getting a fair crop after all. While too early to more than speculate on the outcome of a crop which must be influenced largely by the weather of the next two months, it is safe to say that it is very unlikely that such a combination of unfavorable circumstances will happen within that time as to keep the crop down to the estimate of 70 per cent. of last year, made last month. On the other hand, it would be extraordinarily good weather which would bring it up to a full average after the damage it had sustained. Part of that will, of course, be overbalanced by the increase in breadth. It seems only fair in all the light at present attainable to estimate that the crop of Kentucky will fall below that of last year 10 to 15 per cent.

Returns not embraced in the above say the prospect for fruit is very good.

Killed by an Old Partner.
WILLIAMSTOWN, Ky., April 24.—Yesterday morning at about 7 o'clock, at Stewartsville, in this county, Jim Frank went into the store of John Clark, and after a few words of altercation drew a pistol and shot at Clark five times, hitting him twice. One ball entered the breast and the other the neck, killing him instantly. Frank and Clark had been in business together in general merchandise, but dissolved a few days ago on account of an alleged dishonorable transaction on the part of Frank.

The Almshouse Troubles.
BOSTON, April 23.—The Governor to-day sent an order to the State Board of Health instructing them to assume all powers and duties of the Board of Trustees of the State Almshouse at Tewkesbury, to take effect at once. The Governor also sent an order summarily ousting the Board of Trustees.

Smallpox at Streator, Ill.
STREATOR, April 24.—There are a dozen cases of smallpox in this place. A pest-house is being built and the infected houses are quarantined. A child of Mr. Davis died from the dread disease. James Devine, a switch engineer, with the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, died yesterday.

Nellie, the Female Thug.
CHICAGO, April 23.—Nellie McCabe, the notorious sandbagger and pal of the North Side thugs, was to-day convicted of receiving stolen property and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. She held up and robbed several full grown men last winter.

Glanders in Illinois.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 24.—The State Veterinarian reports cases of glanders among the horses of Whiteside county, and left this city to-day to investigate the reports of the same disease in Perry county.

The Snow Storm West.
DENVER, Col., April 24.—The snow storm in the mountains continues unabated. All trains are delayed. Every available snow plow is in service and the railroad companies hope to prevent a serious blockade.

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVE., APRIL 25, 1883.

OLD Jack Frost came to town last night
But failed to get a nip,
From which we judge the plaguey cuss
Has lost for good his grip.
So we may buckle down to work,
And plant and dig and hoe,
And bet our bottom nickel coin We'll gather what we sow.

it is not considered that any damage was done to vegetation.

on foot for want of something to do.
Business never was duller.

Courier-Journal to Maysville, the place where good Mayors come from.

THE case of Winter against Mannen, from this county, has been affirmed by the Court of Appeals, and the cause of Grant's guardian against Grant has been reversed.

THE Lexington Transcript says: Frankfort, prompted by Maysville's enterprise, is considering the construction of a street railway to run from the old pottery on the North side to the Hermitage distillery on the South.

MR. A. D. TOLLE sold at Flemingsburg

WHILE breaking some ground at his farm near Washington, last week, Mr. R.
C. Darrett, found a well-preserved "Spanish bit" of the coinage of 1782, and also an octagonal copper button inscribed with a star. The ground where these articles were found had not been disturbed for more than sixty years, a negro cabin having formerly stood on the spot.

THE Portsmouth Times says the contract for building the Ohio Valley Railway has been given out and that the work of constructing the road will begin in the next thirty days. The right of way has been secured and the company is financially strong enough to build rapidly and pay promptly. The contract requires that the road shall be finished within eighteen months.

THE Lexington Transcript has had an interview with Col. R. C. Burns, of Catletsburg, who passed through Lexington on his way home from Frankfort, where he had been attending the Court of Appeals. He says the Craft case will be considered May 15th, that it will have a speedy hearing, and he is very sure Craft will not be hanged on the 25th. He also said there is no question but what the evidence against the negro mentioned as having been found in West Virginia, is stronger than that against Craft; that had he (the negro) been arrested in place of Craft, and the facts, as can be proven against him, brought before a jury, there can be no doubt but that he would have been found guilty. Col. Burns also stated that he can place his hands on this negro in a day's notice—that he does not know the suspicion against him, and, therefore, resting easy.

The Street Railway.

The announcement made by an Ironton paper a few days ago that the iron for the street railway had been made there and shipped to this city was premature and probably originated from the circumstance that Col. Frank S. Owens was there last week to have the iron made. The firm of Owens & Barkley has for a number of years made a specialty of supplying railroad hardware, and have from time to time furnished that material to a number of the leading roads of the country. Their knowledge of these things and their facilities for supplying the material needed for the street railway enabled them to compete successfully with the manufacturers and the contract to furnish about 120 tons of rails, fish-plates and bolts was, consequently, awarded to them. An order for these articles was given by Col. Owens to the Lawrence Mills at Iron-ton, which is now engaged making them. The contract requires that they shall be delivered from the 1st to the 20th of May.

Contracts to furnish the ties have been made with Messrs. Collins, Rudy & Co., and W. B. Mathews & Co., and the Lewis County Lumber Company, near Vanceburg. Messrs. L. W. Robertson and W.
S. Frank returned Monday evening from New York and Philadelphia, and while absent, they gave the order, we are informed, for the cars that will be used upon the road. From this it will be seen that a considerable part of the work of starting the enterprise has already been done, and it is fair to presume that the actual work of construction will begin at an early day.

To Advertisers.

In order to circulate the DAILY BUL-LETIN on the Fair Grounds during the races next month, the BULLETIN has bought all the advertising privileges and controls them exclusively. During the four days of the meeting which begins on the 15th of May, the daily edition of the BULLETIN will be one thousand and a large part of this number will be distributed on the grounds. Advertisers will see the advantages the BULLETIN offers as a medium for reaching the ears of the vast number of strangers who will be in the city at that time. The rates for advertising in the mean time will not be changed.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Messrs. Rosser & McCarthy have purchased the exclusive advertising privilege during the races, May 15, 16, 17 and 18,

CAPT. ELIJAH HICKS, on account of whose services in the late war Mrs. Victoria Hicks has recently obtained a pension and arrearages, commanded a company in the Eighty-ninth Ohio Infantry, and was wounded in the head at the battle of Mission Ridge. From this wound he subsequently became insane, and for the last nine years has been an inmate of the Asylum for the Insane at Dayton, Ohio. The case was a very hard one on account of the difficulty of obtaining the proofs required by the Department. Some two years ago Mr. J. D.
Kehoe, of this city, prompted by sympathy for the widow and without hope of reward, interested himself in the matter, and from time to time gathered together the links in the chain of evidence, and successfully established the claim. It was a kind act in a deserving cause and reflects credit on his generosity.

THE BAD BOY.

Peck's Son.

"Well, great Julius Caesar's bald-headed ghost, what's the matter with you," said the grocery man to the bad boy, as he came into the grocery on crutches, with one arm in a sling, one eye blackened, and a strip of court plaster across one side of his face. "Where was the explosion or have you been in a fight?
Or has your pa been giving you what you deserve, with a club? Here let me help you. There, sit down on that keg of applejack. Well, by the great guns, you look as though you had called somebody a liar. What's the matter?" And the grocery man took the crutches and stood them up against the show case.

"O, there's not much the matter with me," said the boy, in a voice that sounded all broke up, as he took a big apple off a basket, and began peeling it with his upper front teeth. "If you think I am a wreck you ought to see the minister. They had to carry him home in instalments, the way they buy sewing machines. I am all right, but they have got to stop him up with oakum and tar before he will ever hold water again."

"Good gracious, you have not had a fight with the minister, have you? Well, I have said all the time, and I stick to it, that you would commit a crime yet, and go to State prison. What was the fuss about?" and the grocery man laid the hatchet out of the boy's reach for fear he would get excited and kill him.

"O, it wasn't no fuss. It was in the way of business. You see, the livery man that I was working for promoted me. He let me drive a horse to haul sawdust for bedding, first, and when he found I was real careful he let me drive an express wagon to haul trunks. Day before yesterday, I think it was—Yes, I was in bed all day yesterday—day before yesterday there was a funeral, and our stable furnished the outfit. It was only a common eleven dollar funeral, so they let me go to drive the horse for the minister—you know, the buggy that goes ahead of the hearse. They gave me an old horse that is thirty years old, that has not been off a walk since nine years ago, and they told me to give him a loose rein, and he would go along all right. It's the same old horse that used to pace so fast on the avenue, years ago, but I didn't know it. Well, I want to blame.
I just let him walk along as though he was hauling sawdust, and gave him a loose rein. When we got off of the pavement the fellow that drives the hearse, he was in a hurry, 'cause his folks was going to have ducks for dinner, and he wanted to get back, so I kept driving along side of my buggy, and telling me to hurry up. I wouldn't do it, 'cause the livery man told me to walk the horse. Then the minister, he got nervous, and said he didn't know as there was any use of going so slow, because he wanted to get back in time to get his lunch and go to a minister's meeting in the afternoon, but I told him we would all get to the cemetery soon enough if we took it cool, and as for me I wasn't in no sweat. Then one of the drivers that was driving the mourners, he came up and said he had to get back in time to run a wedding down to the one o'clock train, and for me to pull out a little. I have seen enough of disobeying orders, and I told him a funeral in the hand was worth two weddings in the bush, and as far as I was concerned, this funeral was going to be conducted in a decorous manner, if we didn't get back till the next day. Well, the minister said, in his regular Sunday-school way, 'My little man, let me take hold of the lines,' and like a darn fool I gave them to him. He slapped the old horse on the crupper with the lines, and then jerked up, and the old horse stuck up his off ear, and then the hearse driver told the minister to pull hard and saw on the bit a little, and the old horse would wake up. The hearse driver used to drive the old pacer on the track, and he knew what he wanted. The minister took off his black kid gloves and put his umbrella down between us, and pulled his hat down tight on his head, and began to pull and saw on the bit. The old cripple began to move along sort of sideways, like a hog going to war, and the minister pulled some more, and the hearse driver, who was right behind, he said, so you could hear him clear to Waukesha, 'Ye-e-up,' and the old horse kept going faster, then the minister thought the procession was getting too quick, and he pulled harder, and yelled 'who-a' and that made the old horse worse, and I looked through the little window in the buggy top, behind, and the hearse was about two blocks behind, and the driver was laughing, and the minister he got pale and said, 'my little man I guess you had better drive,' and I said, 'Not much Mary Ann, you wouldn't let me run this funeral the way I wanted to, and now you can boss it, if you will let me get out,' but there was a street-car ahead and all of a sudden there was an earthquake, and when I came to there were about six hundred people pouring water down my neck, and the hearse was hitched to the fence, and the hearse driver was asking if my leg was broke, and a policeman was fanning the minister with a plug hat that looked as though it had been struck by a pile-driver, and some people were hauling our buggy into the gutter, and some men were trying to take the old pacer out of the windows of the street-car, and then I guess I fainted away again. O, it was worse than telescoping a train loaded with cattle."

"Well, I swan," said the grocery man, as he put some eggs in a funnel shaped brown paper for a servant girl. "What did the minister say when he came to?"
"Say! What could he say? He just yelled 'who-a,' and kept sawing with his hands, as though he was driving. I heard that the policeman was going to pull him for fast driving, till he found it was an accident. They told me, when they carried me home in a hack, that it was a wonder everybody was not killed, and I got home pa was going to sass me, until the hearse driver told him it was the minister that was to blame. I want to find out if they got the minister's umbrella back. The last I see of it the umbrella was running up his trouser's leg, and the point came out by the small of his back.
But I am all right, only my shoulder sprained, and my legs bruised, and my eye black. I will be all right, and shall go to work to-morrow, 'cause the livery man says I was the only one in the crowd that had any sense. I understand the minister is going to take a vacation on account of his liver and nervous prostration. I would if I was him. I never saw a man that had nervous prostration any more than he did when they fished him out of the barbed wire fence, after we struck the street car. But that settles the minister business with me. I don't drive for no more preachers. What I want is a quiet party that wants to go on a walk," and the boy got up and hopped on one foot towards his crutches, filling his pistol pocket with figs as he hobbled along.

"Well, sir," said the grocery man, as he took a shov of tobacco out of a pail, and offered it to the boy knowing that was the only thing in the store the boy would not take. "Do you know I think some of these minister have about as little sense on worldly matters, as anybody?
Now, the idea of that man jerking on an old pacer. It don't make any difference if the pacer was a hundred years old, he would pace if he was jerked on."

"You bet," said the boy, as he put his crutches under his arms, and started for the door. "A minister may be sound on Atonement, but he don't want to saw on an old pacer. He may have the subject of infant baptism down finer than a cambric needle, but if he has ever been to college, he ought to have learned enough not to say 'ye-up' to an old pacer that has been the boss of the road in his time. A minister may be endowed with subliming power to draw sinners to repentance, and make them feel like getting up and dusting for the beautiful beyond, and cause them, by his eloquence, to see angels bright and fair in their dreams, and char-lots of fire flying through the pearly gates and down the golden streets of the New Jerusalem, but he wants to turn out for a street car all the same, when he is driving a 20 pacer. The next time I drive a minister to a funeral, he will walk," and the boy hobbled out hung out a sign in front of the grocery, "Smoked dog fish at halibut prices, good enough for company."

THE LABOR TURMOIL.

Pittsburg Iron Workers Reject a Proposed Cut—Coal Miners Undecided—Cleveland Strike Unsuccessful.

PITTSBURG, April 24.—The latest gossip that has leaked out from responsible quarters regarding the secret proceedings of the recent iron conference on the question of wages is that in addition to reducing the basis of the scale a corresponding reduction of ten per cent., or a little more, in all departments of skilled labor, was proposed. This was rejected by the workmen's representatives, whereupon the manufacturers are reported to have told the workmen that they would hold no more joint meetings until the reduction is accepted. Last evening a vote on the question was taken in a number of lodges, but only a few have been heard from as yet. Three lodges on the South Side voted for a strike rather than submit to a reduction.

COAL MINERS CONSIDERING.

The coal miners hold a convention here to-day to decide whether or not they will accept a reduction of half a cent a bushel. A strike of 6,000 men is not improbable. The late attempt at arbitration has embittered the struggle.

THE CLEVELAND MOLDERS' STRIKE BROKEN.

CLEVELAND, April 24.—The strike of the molders at the works of the Co-operative Stove Company is at last broken, and fifty of the strikers will return to work tomorrow, having acceded to the company's demand. The proprietors of the works will hereafter employ both union and non-union men.

CHICAGO BRICKLAYERS.

CHICAGO, April 24.—The 4,000 striking bricklayers are still out. At the builders' exchange new men from various points are coming in, asking for work, and getting it. There seems to be as little prospect of a compromise as ever, and the union men say they are getting all the money they need to maintain the strike.

Ohio vs. Hamilton County.

COLUMBUS, O., April 24.—The Auditor of State claims that Hamilton county owes to the State over $11,000, taxes which the Auditor of Hamilton county refuses to pay, claiming that the State is not entitled to such taxes, and that instead Hamilton county is square with the State. W. S. Cappeller, Auditor of Hamilton county, yesterday filed his amended answer in the Supreme Court. The case is one about which a large amount of misinformation exists, owing to the efforts made in certain circles to have it appear that the Auditor of Hamilton county owes the State the amount personally, while the fact is that Mr. Cappeller is making a strong fight to save the county which has elected him as its Auditor from paying an amount of money which the State is not entitled to. Personally Mr. Cappeller is not interested a penny's worth in the case. The trial was set for Thursday next, but on account of the resignation of Attorney General Nash the case will be continued. Warner M. Bateman, Cappeller's attorney, telegraphed to the Auditor wanting to know when it would be set for hearing.

Mapleson Secures Patti at $5,500.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The war between Abbey and Mapleson is ended, and the victory lies with the latter, as Mme. Patti has signed a contract to sing with him next season for $5,500 a night. This was what Abbey offered. Up to 5 o'clock last evening the diva was undecided. A reporter saw Mapleson this evening. "Now," said he, "I think everything is all right. I have Gerster and Luca, besides Patti, and let me tell you a nice little bit of news: I think Nilsson will be all right. I mean that if she does not sing with us she will probably not sing against us. You know Mme. Albani and she went on the same steamer—that was part of the scheme. Albani is a charming woman. Christine, after the first two or three days, is very ill at sea, and as she is really bound to Mr. Gye, who is also on board, and I know she does not want to sing at these shilling concerts in London, which she will have to do under the present management, I think it will be all right."

Slade Hands Coburn a Few.

NEW YORK, April 24.—At a boxing entertainment last evening the wind-up was between Herbert Slade and Joe Coburn. Slade struck out vigorously as though determined to give Coburn a taste of his quality before going to Europe. He several times hit Coburn on the nose, and very often landed the glove on Joe's bald pate, while Joe invariably resorted to clinching to avoid the blows, but it was going from bad to worse, as the Maori would catch his head in chancery and give him one blow in the face before letting him go. In the third round Slade got Coburn in a bad position, and hit him a blow on the neck, unintentionally knocking him down. Upon arising Coburn was advised by a friend to "give him one," but Coburn did not or could not take the advice, and after a few more blows had been exchanged the men shook hands and left the stage.

Senator Anthony's Illness.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Senator Anthony's illness is more serious than was at first supposed. His malady is uræmic poisoning. During the session of the Senate last winter Mr. Anthony was frequently noticed sitting by himself with a very abstracted manner, and this peculiarity has been still more frequently observed since his return home. When he was stricken down on Saturday his intellect appeared considerably clouded, but his mind seemed rather clear yesterday. The doctor hopes to conquer this attack, but fears are expressed on every hand that the disease will eventually prove fatal. Senator Anthony was sixty-eight years old on the first day of this month. During his twenty-eight years in the United States Senate he has been very popular in Washington, and his present physical condition is no doubt due in a large measure to high living. If he lives Senator Anthony will enter upon his fifth term when the Senate meets again.

Pension Examining Swindlers.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The Commissioner of Pensions has issued a circular, stating that complaints have reached his office that unscrupulous persons are traveling throughout the country, claiming that they are authorized to represent the Commissioner of Pensions, and that they have defrauded pensioners and applicants for pensions. No special examiner or other person employed by the pension office is authorized to receive money either as fees or expenses, and all such examiners are provided with certificates, bearing the signature of the Commissioner of Pensions and the Interior. Therefore, if any person, in the absence of such authority, should represent that he is a special examiner of the pension office, or shall demand or obtain money under any pretense whatever, he may be safely set down as a fraud and a swindler, and among the worst of his class. Commissioner Dudley states that it is his earnest desire that prompt and vigorous measures be taken to bring these offenders to justice.

Tabor's Troubles.

DENVER, Col., April 23.—Society circles are excited in consequence of ex-Senator Tabor's action in causing the arrest of W. H. Rush, his partner in the Windsor Hotel, for the alleged embezzlement of $25,000, while acting as manager of the Tabor Grand Opera-house and in attaching his interest in the hotel for the same amount. The excitement is due to the fact that Rush's wife refuses to recognize the new Mrs. Tabor, being an old friend of Tabor's first wife. The feeling is strong against Tabor and it is understood his bride will be ostracised generally in society circles.

Agitated Gamblers.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 24.—Great consternation prevails here among the gamblers and women of the town. The grand jury have found about 100 indictments against them thus far, and the work proceeds. It is stated on good authority that Judge Hammond will impose no fines this time, but put the guilty ones in jail. Heretofore their cases have been heard in the City Court, but Judge Hammond has announced that the Superior Court, over which he presides, will try a majority of the cases.

Sentenced to Hang.

St. Louis, April 24.—Judge Van Wagoner overruled the motion in arrest of judgment in the case of Matt Lewis, who killed Mary Andrews, his wife, and sentenced the prisoner to be hanged on the 24th of June next.
